PA NEWS OBSERVES

New Castle and this immediate district apparently escaped the fury of the wintry blasts sweeping over parts of the country. While a high wind swept over the district last night, and the temperature dropped about 20 degrees, weather conditions this morning were quite normally fall-like, the sun shining brightly, and the temperature being between thirty and forty degrees.

One young New Castle boy went shopping in a downtown store Monday, late afternoon, and parked his scooter bike in front of the store, which drew quite a lot of laughs from other shoppers. Upon completing his tasks, he came from the store, picked up his scooter and went on his merry way.

Many Lawrence county families are planning and some have already started their annual trek to Florida and the southern states, to visit during the winter months.

This is the time when Mrs. Housewife begins her early winter house-cleaning and comes across several discarded toys which have belonged to the family's children and been abused in hardy ways, but could still be fixed and repaired to make unfortunate children happier by their possession. These should be saved and sent to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, local lodge, who repair them for the Yuletide season and distribute them.

Blast Of Unknown Origin Causes $150,000 To $200,000 Damage To Equipment

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12.—A fire of unknown origin spread through the 179th Field Artillery National Guard armory in Atlanta early today, causing damage to army equipment estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

The blaze was discovered just before midnight Monday and at 5 a. m., CST today still was not under control.

According to Col. Thomas L. Alexander, the fire broke out in a fourth floor room used to store much equipment. It was in this room that most of the damage was caused.

Pending an investigation, Col. Alexander would not comment as to the probable cause of the blaze. Fire officials, asked directly if there was any hint of sabotage, said merely: "We don't know yet."

No one was known to have been injured.

The warships, part of a large naval squadron, was attacked on Saturday night, and two torpedoes, and possibly a third, struck the ship in the stern, said a communique, which added:

"Loss of the enemy ship, which certainly was most heavily damaged, must be regarded as probable."

Weather Prevents Night Attack On London By Nazis

Raids Are Resumed During Day Despite Weather Conditions However

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 12.—Air raid sirens sounded in London at 11:30 a. m. (5:30 a. m. E. S. T.) today as German bombers, despite adverse weather conditions, sought to carry out an attack on the British capital.

As the result of severe icing conditions and squally weather no German raiders ventured over the British Isles during the night, the air ministry disclosed today.

All Nazi attacks ceased at 9 p. m. and up until 6 a. m. This morning no enemy planes had been sighted, a communique reported. Evening attacks prior to 9 p. m. were light, and only a few planes bombed London.

In one London district, a fire was started and several persons reportedly were trapped in the wreckage of the blazing buildings.

Reports from the southeast coast and eastern counties stated that several dwelling houses were wrecked in the early evening raids, and that a few persons had been killed and injured.

ROACH POWDER IN PANCAKE BATTER

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12.—Death claimed its 12th victim early today as tired physicians strove for the recovery of some 45 others, made violently ill by eating poisoned pancakes at the Salvation Army Industrial Home for men in Pittsburgh.

Latest victim of the bizarre tragedy was Stanley Tumols, 58. It was definitely established by United States food and drug agents and city chemists that the batter from which the pancakes were made contained roach powder — sodium fluoride — a white substance which might easily be mistaken for flour or baking powder.

Mystery In Tragedy
But how the quick-acting poison became an ingredient in the breakfast food served to 70 laborers at the refuge yesterday morning still remained a mystery today.

In addition to the 44 men lying in hospitals, four others were treated and released, three city hospitals reported.

Those dead were: Herbert Ohlter, 51; Henry McNally, 54; George Williams, 58; Frank Stack, 57; Fred Merkel, 51; Isiah Sandru, 54; Jacob (Continued On Page Two)

Editor's Note: The Italian high command claims possession of Gallabat, and today's Rome communique reports that British attempts to recapture it were repulsed.

EXPLOSION OCCURS AT POWDER PLANT NEAR EDENBURG

Three Employees Are Killed When Pack House Is Blown Up

BLAST SHAKES MUCH OF DISTRICT

Cause Of Explosion Will Probably Never Be Known, Officials Say

With a roar which could be heard for fifteen miles, the gelatin pack house at the Burton plant of the American Cyanamid and Chemical Corporation at Covert's Station let go at 8:10 o'clock this morning, completely demolishing the building and instantly killing the three men who were employed inside it.

The dead are: Lee K. Waddell, aged 35, of 137 1/2 Mills Way; Elmer Kilduff, aged 33, of Edenburg, Pa.; Harold R. Duncan, aged 24, of R. F. D. No. 2.

Just what caused the blast will never be known, as the destruction of the building in which the three men were working was complete, destroying all evidence of what might have caused the explosion. However, there was no indication of sabotage, Superintendent Paul Forney stated.

At Daily Task
According to Mr. Forney, the men at work in the building had been there since 7 o'clock, and had been at their daily task of packing the dynamite in the cartridges of heavy waxed paper, for more than an hour when the blast occurred. This is done by machines designed for the purpose. There were approximately two mixes of the dynamite in the building, totalling 1,000 pounds of the explosive.

Officials of the company escaped being in the vicinity in a miraculous manner, as it was customary for them to begin their morning inspection of the various buildings which cover several hundred acres of ground, about that time in the morning. It was also fortunate that none of the trucks were in that vicinity at that hour.

Blast Felt In New Castle
The force of the explosion was visibly felt in New Castle, buildings being shaken by the force of the explosion and windows rattled for miles around. Nearby, windows were broken in homes, and people were jarred by the blast.

The cable lines of the Postal Telegraph Company, between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, which pass near the plant were damaged by the force of the blast, interrupting communication until repairs could be completed.

Small Building
The destroyed building was 20 by 20 by 10 feet in size, and was built into the hillside on three sides. The force of the blast was exerted in the westerly direction. Bits of the building and machinery used in packing the explosive together with parts of the men's bodies and clothing were blown over an area of several hundred yards, being found clinging to the limbs of trees. Half of a ten dollar bill, which one of the men had in his pocket was found 300 feet away from the scene of the explosion. Coroner T. F. Nugent stated, while only small bits of the bodies could be found.

Coroner Nugent was informed that two dinky engines had just left the scene of the blast, traveling in opposite directions when the explosion occurred, one of them being only 75 feet away. However, the way in which the building was constructed saved it from the force of the blast.

Willkie Gives Future Policy

Outlines Stand For 22,000,000 Followers Who Voted For Him

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Wendell L. Willkie's 22,000,000 followers were expected today to respond readily and eagerly to his suggestion that they constitute themselves a "vigorous, loyal and public-spirited opposition" during the third new deal.

Speaking to them as titular head of the party, the defeated Republican presidential candidate urged his followers in a nation-wide broadcast last night to bury any rancor and bitterness aroused by the campaign in the interests of national unity.

Not Relaxing Fight
But the fight for the principles enunciated in the 1940 campaign must never be relaxed, he warned, in order to preserve two party rule during the present war crisis.

Willkie again pledged his full cooperation in the national defense program and towards obtaining all possible aid for Great Britain. But he warned that the continually rising national debt carried with it the danger of inflation as an immediate eventuality.

He suggested that the many Willkie clubs and organizations of independent Democrats formed in behalf of his presidential candidacy carry on their work but not in his name.

And by indirection, he rejected suggestions that he be given a post in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Five Steps Urged
In England, Willkie explained, members of the cabinet are colleagues of equal rank with the prime minister. But in the United States, he asserted, they are merely administrative subordinates of the president.

ed that the Greek forces in Albania are threatening to "annihilate" the remnants of an Italian division defending the Italian military base at Koritza. The Hellenic warriors were said to have surrounded both Fascist flanks in this region and were reported "hammering the last Italian line of resistance."
EDITOR'S NOTE: Authorities in London said they had no confirmation of a report from Yugoslavia stating that the Italians had launched a counter-offensive in the Koritza region of Albania, where Greek troops have thrown an iron ring around the Italian military base. According to the Yugoslavian rumors, the Fascist counter-drive forced the Greeks to withdraw from several hills dominating Doritza.)
Greek Advances
Reports from the battle zone told a story of successive Greek advances.
They stated that three Italian battalions in the Epirus region were broken up near the Ionian sea coast following collapse of the Italian Alpine division which had been holding the middle front in the Pindus mountain area.
The three battalions were reported retreating in disorderly panic before the fierce Greek charges, abandoning large quantities of war material and suffering heavy losses.
After disposing of these three columns, it was claimed, the Greeks were forging relentlessly ahead and were threatening a large Italian force further to the north.
Along the coast the Italian retreat was hampered by weather conditions and the Fascist mechanized equipment was in grave danger of becoming bogged down in deep mud. Athens military circles claimed.

Windows Broken
Windows were broken in the plant laboratory nearby, and an old barn, used for storage in the immediate vicinity was literally ripped to shreds.
Most of the employees of the company, visibly affected by the terrible fate which had overtaken their fellow employees, were dismissed for the day, only those needed to guard the property and take care of immediate duties being kept at the plant.
Kiduff and Waddell came here from Sinnamahoning, where they had been employed by the Grasselli Chemical Company in a similar plant. They had worked at the local plant since 1930. Duncan, it is stated, had been employed at the dynamite plant for the past five years.
Coroner Nugent, Sheriff M. M. Ingham, and state police went to the scene immediately after being informed that an explosion had taken place to conduct an investigation. All are convinced however, that the blast was entirely accidental.
Mr. Kiduff is survived by his wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kiduff, of Sinnamahoning, and a sister, Mrs. Beatrice Watson, of Philadelphia.
A brother of Harold Duncan's, Charles, is also employed at the explosive plant, and was at work there when the blast occurred. He left for his home immediately afterwards.
Harold Duncan is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lottie Duncan, and two other brothers, David, of Pittsburgh, and George, of New Castle.
Mr. Waddell is survived by his wife and his mother.
This morning's explosion was the first that the company had experienced since the American Cyanamid and Chemical Company took over the local plant here, Superintendent Forcey stated.

SEVERAL AREAS REPORT BLASTS THIS MORNING

to have been injured, several seriously.
Practically the company's entire output consists of torpedo-cap and flare railway signals. It was emphasized that the company was not engaged in filling war-order contracts for any foreign power.
Sixty girls are normally employed at the plant, but it was not known whether the full working force was on duty when the blast let go shortly before nine o'clock this morning. State Police at Trenton said reports were that 15 girls definitely were known to be dead and ten others were missing.
Search for the missing girls was begun immediately after the explosion. Picked crews combed through the rubble of brick and steel and splintered woodwork piled in crazy quilt confusion where the factory building once stood.
Three Killed
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 12.—Three men were killed today when a terrific explosion shattered a building in which they were working on the 500-acre plant of the Trojan Powder Company on the outskirts of Allentown.
No other persons were injured and damaged was estimated by John Bronstein, treasurer of the company, at $3,000 to $4,000.

Force Of Blast At Dynamite Plant Felt Strongly Here

Homes And Buildings Are Shaken And Windows Rattle In New Castle Homes

All New Castle was aware that a terrific explosion had taken place near the city, when the gelatin pack house at the Burton plant of the American Cyanamid and Chemical Corp. was destroyed by a blast at 8:10 o'clock this morning.
Many felt its effect in a different manner. The force of the explosion came down the Mahoning river valley, the plant being located just this side of Edenburg on the hillside above the river.
The earth seemed to shake just before the sound of the explosion was heard. Doors were blown open in homes here and some stated that they were almost knocked off their feet.
A woman residing near the scene of the explosion in North Beaver township, stated that she was preparing breakfast and the force of the blast knocked a skillet from her hands.

SOVIET COMMISSAR CONFERS WITH HITLER

marked by a "strictly business" reception—in marked contrast to the extravagant Nazi showmanship that has accompanied visits of other important foreign statesmen to the Reich.
Although official formalities were carried out with punctilious dispatch, the flags that usually decorate Berlin on such occasions were lacking and there were no massed thousands along the route from the railway station to Molotov's Berlin residence.
Significance attached to the Hitler-Molotov conference by Germany was made unmistakably clear by comment published in diplomatic correspondence, the organ of the German foreign office.
Welcoming Molotov, this article hailed the talk as the inauguration of new political developments of world-wide importance and added that it is now evident Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan are "now ready to respect each other's interests fully."

WILLKIE GIVES FUTURE POLICY

dent. Hence no amount of Republicans in the cabinet, he contended, could insure two party rule.
To counter-act the threat of inflation, Willkie urged the following five steps:
"1. All federal expenditures, except those for national defense and necessary relief, ought to be cut to the bone and below the bone."
"2. The building of new plants and new machinery for the defense program should be accomplished as far as possible by private capital."
"3. Taxes should be levied so as to approach as nearly as possible the pay-as-you-go plan."
"4. Taxes and government restrictions should be adjusted to take the brakes off private enterprise."
"5. Our government must change its punitive attitude toward both little and big business men."

Aunt Abby says

This world would be lots pleasanter if folks could see ahead as far as they see behind, and act accordingly.
I keep wishin' my neighbor wouldn't spoil her pretty party sandwiches by serving such a mess as she does on May 17 I'll bring over a package of LIPTON'S and show her what real deep flavor an' fragrance is like!
When somebody says she prides herself on bein' frank, it means she's about to say somethin' disagreeable.
One o' the best things in life is almost free, anyway. That's when you figure that even as grand a tea as LIPTON'S costs less than anything you kin drink 'cept water!
Lipton's matchless flavor comes from a blend of choice teas—each selected for some distinctive quality. This blend includes something only Lipton gives you—no other tea from Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.

ROLL CALL OF RED CROSS GETS STARTED MONDAY

preparing the food, which was served by a group of N. Y. A. girls from the Crawford-Oakridge Center.
Pageant Presented
Later in the evening a pageant was presented in the Georgetown Washington Junior High School, when a typical day at the Red Cross office was enacted. The pageant was directed and written by Mrs. John W. McIlwraith, assisted by Miss Lois Barry, Miss Georgiana McNeess, Red Cross sponsors at George Washington and Ben Franklin buildings, and Miss Mettle Round.
Mr. Davidson gave an excellent talk on the work of the Red Cross, which he stated had been developed to the point where the great organization is now equipped to handle any type of a disaster, besides aiding the wounded men on the battle field, for which the Red Cross was originally organized.
The Red Cross sensed the need for assistance in any emergency, he stated, and puts into practice their training in rendering the help that is necessary, be it flood, famine, fire, or pestilence. He urged the citizens of Lawrence County to enroll as a preparedness measure.
Open Forum
At the Chapter House during the course of the dinner, an open forum discussion took place, when many questions were answered which have arisen recently in the minds of the public.
The Red Cross right now is furnishing assistance only in China and England, he stated. Whenever, there is an assurance that supplies will not fall into the hands of any of the axis powers, it will be rendered to the refugees of the countries which have been overrun by them. So far, none of these supplies have fallen into the hands of Germany, in spite of rumors to the contrary.

The Chapter here immediately got in touch with plant superintendent, Paul Forcey, and was informed that no assistance was needed. Had it been, the resources of the National Red Cross would have been at the immediate disposal of the stricken ones here.
The earliest glove makers in history were the monks under Charlemagne who were granted unrestricted rights of hunting in return for making gloves, girdles and book covers from the skins of deer they killed.

NEWS VIEWS

By DR. H. M. ROSEN

The political echoes are still bouncing off the cliffs of public opinion—though the election has become a footnote in history books. No matter how we feel personally, the majority of the citizens have indicated their choice in a flurry of "Xs"—and the losers have to drop the "crying howl" and prove the United States is still united. The tragic predictions of both parties before the balloting had many of us figuring the election would be followed at least by an earthquake—but apparently the U. S. is still doing business. So, let's pull together—and no one will ever pull us apart.

A New Harmony, Ind., man always rides the front train coach because it arrives first. A lot of us worry more about when we arrive than where we're going. Do you have headaches—lack pep? Perhaps you need glasses but don't realize it. Let Dr. H. M. Rosen examine your eyes—tell you whether or not you need glasses. ### Harold B. Hersey Guest Speaker At Woman's Club

An attentive audience of members of the Woman's Club, listened to an informative address on the romance of "Magazine Publishing for the Masses" at their regular meeting held Monday afternoon, in the Highland United Presbyterian church. Noted author and editor of some 80 magazines, Harold Brainerd Hersey, brought his rare and understanding appreciation of the demands of the reading public.

In view of the 20th anniversary of the publication of the first magazine in America, it is well to make a survey in the magazine field where 2600 publications appear regularly, covering every conceivable subject. Magazines exist for each professional and technical group: art, music, science and industry are covered; current history is recorded and topics on general education are made available. Their evolution may be traced from an early "gentle tradition" or "stuffed shirt" period to the present complex world influence where hard, fast realism maintains. The chief reason for their vast number, is that people are ready to be entertained. They seek

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Meyers, Ph. D.

PARENT CAN'T LEARN FOR CHILD

Often a parent will write: "I have trouble with my child in arithmetic." It may, however, be in reading or spelling.

No doubt this parent does suppose she has most of the trouble. But her trouble is nothing in comparison with the child's. He not only has trouble over his arithmetic but over his parent as well. Indeed, his trouble over arithmetic might wane or disappear but for his parent.

Let us remember that the child does the learning. We don't and can't do it for him. In our efforts at helping him learn we often hinder him unawares. Always we hamper him when we reveal annoyance or anger over his errors or learning troubles. He doesn't make mistakes in learning or in order to be "correct." He makes them in spite of his efforts not to make them. Already he is vexed at himself for having made them or for his failure to remember the right answer or arrive at the right conclusion. Then for him to be scolded or abused is just too much.

Advice to Parents
You are hearing your child spell his words, say his nine-times table, or read from his lesson for tomorrow. He spells a word wrong, names a combination incorrectly or says was for saw. How do you act then? Are you wholly calm? Is your voice subdued, your breathing normal? Or do you yell at him, "What did you say?" yelling the same louder in case he repeats the error. What is the sense in having him repeat the error? The least sense is in your yelling. A maniac would do as well. Maybe you are one when you act so.

The longer you go on presuming to help your child in such a relationship the more confused he grows and the more mistakes he makes. You began to be a hindrance to your child's learning the moment your breathing grew irregular. You felt it at the pit of your stomach. That should have been the sign for you to walk away and keep out of your child's presence until you had wholly regained composure. It may be that you will never wholly manage your emotions when you try to help your child with his lessons. Until you feel sure you should not try to help him at all.

Don't Give Up
I still believe it possible for any parent reading this column to attain self-mastery in this relationship. You need to work out a sensible philosophy. First of all, you need to be able to put yourself in your imagination in your child's place. Once you do that you are on the way to success.

Believing that many parents can calmly and efficiently help their child at home, and knowing that many will try to do so regardless, I have prepared a series of home helps for children in reading and spelling. In writing these helps I have had in mind the best suggestions I could think of by which the parent might try to help without being a stumbling block unaware to the child's learning; that, moreover, these helps might make the child happier and foster a happier parent-child relationship.

You may have any one of the following without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

a. Home Helps for Poor Readers of 2, 3 and 4th Grades.

b. Home Helps for Poor Readers above the Fourth Grades.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

UNANIMOUS

Since the world tumbled into confusion in 1929, the problem of America's youth—with its cynical repudiation of copybook-maxim rules of life, its distrust of elders who have failed to meet the needs of their generation, its "So What?" attitude toward the outward trappings of idealism, patriotism and ethics—has worried pundits and moralists.

School papers heralded graduation with the headline, "WPA Here We Come!" College students formed the Veterans of Future Wars and sardonically demanded a bonus in advance. Youth in large part appeared to have decided life is a farce, without will or purpose.

Then America called on her youth to register for national defense, and there were whispers of dire misgivings—talk of anti-draft riots, of wholesale scandalous attempts to evade the law. And then came a paradox like a burst of light; a magnificent, unanimous response of 16,000,000 young men, marching as one—rich and poor, white and black—to answer the nation's call to duty.

Youth's answer is of itself a telling indictment of a society that had forced the rebellious "so what" attitude. Youth resented the depression in its elders' behavior, brought upon it—youth wanted work, not idleness; wanted opportunity for its native egotism and seething energy, not paternalism; wanted action and work and real responsibility.

Handed a real and mighty and precious job, asked to accept solemn responsibility, to incur risks, to make sincere sacrifices for the defense that must make America secure from all enemies, American youth today responded precisely as American youth responded in '76 and '81 and '17. To any who would threaten the United States, to Mussolini, Hitler, Stalin, Hiroto, and to all who had come to doubt the integrity of the youth of this land, the young men of America have given their splendid answer.

Yes, Lincoln's son got a captain's commission at the age of 21, but what of it? The records show that thousands of privates were 16 and 15 and even 14. They seasoned early, then.

Days when the banks were a bit different from what they are now are recalled in an American Legion magazine story.

A man gave his grocer a check in payment of a bill and it came back marked "no funds."

"But I am positive there is some mistake," said the man when the grocer told him about it. "Let's go over to the bank and see what's the matter."

"Does this man have an account here?" asked the grocer when the two entered the bank.

"He does," said the teller. "Then why did this check come back marked no funds?"

"It's this way," explained the teller. "That notation didn't mean the man had no funds. It meant the bank had no funds."

We are told it doesn't do much good to spank little girls when they get to be over 18 but it's a lot more fun.

Mr. City Man, what do you know about soil conservation.

A man who doesn't dance attended a dance one evening recently. A young lady acquaintance came up to him and asked him if he didn't want to dance with her. "I don't dance," he said, "but I'll go out there and hold you while you dance." The offer wasn't taken.

An exchange tells us about troubles of a section of Ireland which began when rats got pestiferous. The people imported cats to run down the rats. The cats disposed of the rats and took after the rabbits. Foxes were brought in to battle the cats. They killed off the cats and got after the birds. Now the government is going after the foxes.

We still get a chuckle out of that little yarn about the man who received a telegram from his wife while he was attending a sales convention. It read:

"Dear William: Don't forget you are a married man."

A friend intercepted the wire and sent this reply:

"Your telegram received too late."

Didn't you get my letter telling you to engage three new stenographers on the basis of their grammar alone?

"Guess you'll have to write plain next time, boss," said the office manager. "We all thought that was glamour."

Good Taste

By FRANCES MARREL

"I am invited to a Tacky Party," writes Isabel. The other girls are planning to wear ragged and dirty clothes, and to wear their hair drawn back or in other grotesque styles. Please give me some hints as to what would be clever for me to wear.

Answer: If you are clever, you will never make yourself look grotesque or shabby, especially if you wish to impress new friends of the opposite sex—even men who have made themselves up to look "tacky." Girls ambitious to manifest sex appeal would never be stupid enough to desire any social program requiring them to look unattractive. Such a program is sometimes devised by older women for younger women whose beauty they envy.

If you are committed to the party you mention, go as a gypsy in a gay costume that harmonizes with your coloring or as a cute little jester with over-made-up for a public competition. If you must wear an unattractive costume, bring along some party clothes that you may change at unmasking time.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: What do you think of girls who sit at a public restaurant table and retouch their make-up after finishing a meal. Out comes the compact and then the lipstick. I have no objection to make-up but it seems to me that it is in very bad taste to apply it so flagrantly in public.

Answer: Such public performances do, in fact, spoil the illusion of freshness and beauty that make-up is supposed to create upon feminine features. The primary purpose of cosmetics is to compensate for the shortcomings of Old Mother Nature, who frequently neglects to give us rosy cheeks and ruby lips with which to be alluring to the opposite sex. Therefore, public repairs amount to public proclamations of defects.

Of course, ever since time immemorial, women have been unable to pass a mirror without giving a glance to see that all is well. It is just an old feminine custom which will prevail as long as there are women and mirrors into which they may cast their reflections. But the clever woman will do her primping and repairing unseen by a roomful of observers—especially by the man on whom she is trying to make an impression.

Secrecy Veils Activities Of Navy
Reporters Are Forced To Speculate
Recent Maneuver In Caribbean Cited

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secrecy already is beginning to veil Uncle Sam's naval activities.

There is exactly a censorship that is to say, if reporters can dig up any news they can print it. They can't dig much of it up however. When they ask questions officialdom won't answer. So all the scribes can do is to speculate.

For instance, a few days ago word was received that our warships and planes seemed to be extremely busy in the eastern Caribbean. Air reinforcements were arriving in Puerto Rico. Dispatches from San Juan said so. But why? No explanation. Warships also were sighted from the Puerto Rico coast, steaming into the Atlantic. What was their mission? The navy department wouldn't tell. Our entire neutrality patrol fleet put to sea from Key West. Whither it was bound was another mystery.

Washington correspondents accordingly did some guessing.

They surmised that we might be getting ready to occupy Martinique, Guadeloupe and French Guiana should the Vichy government show signs of surrendering them to Germany. Or, they thought, maybe we were preparing to take possession of the West Indian island bases we recently acquired from Britain. Or, again, they weighed the possibility that the navy folk had received word of more sea raiding in southern waters.

Pure Guessing
But it was all pure guesswork. As the situation develops there probably will have to be more and more of it.

The least sensational guess is that we simply are about to take over the bases the British are leasing to us. For John Bull won't object to that; quite the contrary. The Germans and the Vichy outfit emphatically will object, though, if we assume charge of Martinique, Guadeloupe and French Guiana. They won't be able to do anything about it, except how diplomatically, but it will be quite an "incident," nevertheless.

If, however, the navy's informed of an Axis raider at large in our Pan-American oceanic neutrality zone there's liable to be some shooting.

Supposing such a raider's presence, it isn't likely to give up without a fight. The pocketship Von Spee didn't, not so very long ago. First it fought and then scuttled itself rather than surrender.

And that some other Axis ship, or even more than one, is loose in the south Atlantic is no certainty. The Von Spee succeeded in snatching out from Germany despite the British blockade. It's no safe bet that a few more didn't manage to do so also.

Perhaps it would seem that, if any did, we should have heard of their depredations before now.

Yet, during the last war a German raider called the Mowe operated for a pretty long time off the South American east coast without being so much as suspected.

This craft's system was to catch an Allied merchantman, take its crew and passengers, if any, on board, and then sink the captured vessel. It ran up a score exceeding 20 ships. They were reported missing, of course, but nobody knew what had become of them.

Finally, though, the Mowe became so cluttered with prisoners as to have scarcely standing room on board. Therefore, the next time it overhauled an English ship, it didn't sink the latter, but loaded all its captives onto the captured vessel, telling them to beat it into the nearest port. It was a tactical error. The prisoners made Pernambuco. Thence the news was disseminated. Immediately the British sent men-o-war to look for the Mowe and it sent it to the bottom.

I remember the affair perfectly for I got the finest scoop out of it in my newspaper career.

Censors Hurt Others
I was Buenos Aires correspondent at the time for a North American news association. Upon the Mowe's prisoners landing at Pernambuco their story promptly was telegraphed down the coast to B. A. There I got it, and naturally wired it at once to my New York headquarters. It went by the Central and South American Telegraph company—the way across to Valparaiso, thence up the South American west coast to Panama; thence to Galveston; thence to New York overland. From there it was broadcast everywhere in the United States.

It was a news beat I couldn't understand it for the yarn was available to anyone in Buenos Aires. Years later I learned how it happened. We weren't in the war then. Consequently my dispatch, wired all the way across neutral soil and through neutral waters, got through. My opposition filed with the Western Telegraph company, which was by way of London. There the British censor threw the opposition's account into the waste basket.

This just goes to show what a censorship does to news services. I was glad of it in that instance, but I don't like the principle.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

I believe it was Taine, the great French literary historian, who noted that much of the great Elizabethan literature just boiled up in taverns and pot houses. He cited Shakespeare, particularly, in this connection. There was a great stew and contention of ideas around the night spots of London, with literary brawls and conspiracies, some noble poetry and drama and occasionally a broken head issuing therefrom.

Taine stresses its honesty and vitality. In such mingling of lusty and contentious citizens he found the take-off for the Elizabethan Renaissance. We were musing about Ben Johnson writing "Have You Seen a White Lily Growing?" and then taking the count in a bar-room fight, and just then in came our friend Hymie Auger, sizzling with some kind of a new idea—if that's what it was.

The idea, or the general confusion, had been kicked up in a big rock-and-sock argument in Terence Dugan's Allen street bar. The argument wasn't about the election. It had something to do with tolerance, and it seemed that Mr. Auger had made a sucker out of this Alloysius Feinberg. Gendarmes and citizenry, even the booze clerk and the swamy, all were agreeing with Mr. Auger before it was over, but I confess that Mr. Auger's summing up left me with grave doubts. But, one must admit, he had a point.

"This Al Feinberg is one of the best fellows you'll find anywhere around town," said Mr. Auger. "He can't walk a block without half a dozen people stopping to nuzzle him and ask how's the wife, etc. I always liked him, but when we got to arguing the other night, I got to figuring that he's one of these 'other hand' guys, if you know what I mean. He was saying that they was two sides to everything, etc., and everybody was giving him a hand. I jumped him about that and said they was only one side to Adolf Hitler, and a heel I knew down the street that was making his living out of a pair of trained dice, etc., and some others I could mention. We abridge Mr. Auger here and sum up our findings that the subject of the debate was "Is Tolerance necessarily a Virtue?" Mr. Auger had the negative. He continues: "I says, 'If you are always ready to let the other guy write his own ticket, it means that you don't care anything about whatever it is you're chinning about. If the Doc does or the tariff or the war or the election or religion or anything like that don't burn you up and make you want to sock somebody it means you don't give a whoop. What I mean is that you always see the two sides of things you think you haven't got a bet on and don't care anything about.'"

"Al was so nice about it he got me (Continued On Page Seven)

Rotarians Hear Notable Armistice Day Address

By Judge W. W. Braham

New Castle Rotarians heard an Armistice Day address Monday at noon in The Castle Hotel. But it was not such an Armistice Day address as has been customary for over twenty years. The address, delivered by Judge W. W. Braham was one that looked back at the world of 1918 and the world of today, the causes which have led up to the present world crisis and the mistakes which followed the armistice of 1918.

Judge Braham was introduced by Attorney Joseph R. McPate of the program committee. Preceding him, Walter Davidson of the American Red Cross spoke on the present roll call and the work to which the money would be put.

Because of the unusual merit of the address of Judge Braham it is reprinted here without any deletion. It merits reading. The address follows:

Armistice Day 1940

It is difficult to speak on Armistice Day in 1940 without a feeling of sadness. So far away it seems, yet so recent. So joyful it was and hopeful; yet how sad the outcome, how bitter the regret, how menacing the future. When at eleven o'clock in the morning twenty-two years ago the thunder of the great guns was hushed and millions of war-weary men poured out from trench and camp, when hundreds of lonely ships were able to leave off the death watch over the stormy northern seas, the whole world was rejoined. The power of the tyrant had been broken by the united action of the freedom-loving people of the world. It had required almost three years of war to bring home to the free peoples their stake in the war but when once they saw and acted together, they were irresistible. Victory was theirs and the world rejoiced.

We told ourselves certain things, before and during that war, which strengthened our arms and put in our blood. We believed that there was a great people under arrogant and cruel leaders who, not satisfied with a predominant place in the industry, business, literature and arts of men, was determined to conquer and impose its will upon the rest of the world. We believed that the fate of democratic governments everywhere depended upon the outcome of the war and we believed further that, if we but stood steadfast and persevered to the bitter end, we might set up a system which would make it impossible for such a war ever to occur again.

When the war was won, the fighting man had done all he could do. The soldier is rarely a philosopher or a statesman. His creed is very simple. Says he, my country is in danger; fighting must be done to protect it; fighting is a young man's business because it imposes hardships which only the young can endure; I am young; therefore I must go. So reasoned the young fighting man of 1917-1918. He went and did his bit and came home, reading his glory in his country's eyes.

The soldier, simple man that he is, expects and has a right to expect certain things. He has a right to expect that he will be well led, by good officers, with proper service of supply behind him, that his life will not be thrown away uselessly. He has a right to expect that the men at the seat of government will act like statesmen and patriots.

Everything which human valor could do for this country in 1917-1918 was done by its young armies. Not Caesar's 10th Legion, not Cromwell's Ironsides, not Napoleon's Old Guard ever performed more resounding feats of arms than those of the American army in France during the last war. And many of them died. We think of them proudly and affectionately today, remembering A. E. Houseman's, "Epitaph for Dead Soldiers":

"Here dead we lie because we did not choose
To live and shame the land from which we sprung
Life to be sure is nothing much to lose
But young men think it is, and we were young."

The American soldier did not disappoint his people, his leaders. And he had a right to expect that the men who had charge of his destiny would not disappoint him, and be statesmen and patriots. Since the signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918, someone has been guilty of colossal failure in the maintenance of peace; but that failure is not the failure of the armed forces.

Whose has been the failure? To begin with, we refused to permit France and England to make a peace which would allow them to protect themselves. Clemenceau wanted France's frontier to be the Rhine. We encouraged them to think that our advice of a League of Nations would be an effective substitute for any protective alliances. We insisted upon the form and content of the League of Nations Covenant. Then in the end we abandoned the whole affair, made a shameful separate peace with the common foe and settled down to ridicule and debase our entry into the war and our conduct thereafter. All the ideals and slogans of the war have been the laughing stock of our super-intellectuals for twenty years. For twenty years any sort of cooperation with Europe or any other powers was unthinkable.

In the meantime in the old world the defeated power discovered that it was no longer confronted by the force of peace-loving nations. It learned how to divide and rule. A great genius rose, Adolf Hitler, who learned to trade in men's hatreds and passions. For ten years before his rise to power his nation began to prepare for war, and during the more than seven years since he became dictator of Germany he has prepared his people body, mind, and spirit for conquest. When his time came he loosed the thunderbolt, and from the Arctic Ocean to the Adriatic and from Western Europe to the Russian border his word is now law. Only the British Empire and the Greeks, the descendants of those fair haired Hellenes of whom Homer sang, remain to face him.

Europe lies prostrate and bleeding under the heel of the conqueror. Human slavery is being revived and conquered people are being shipped all over Europe to work their hearts out under the lash. The right of free speech, a free press, a free radio, the right to freedom of worship have disappeared.

Recognizing this country as the last great bulwark of free government, an alliance has been adopted whereby we are threatened on two oceans. Let the British navy be overpowered or worn down to impotence—a thing which may happen this winter—and this country is at once confronted with the united fleets of Europe on the east, and the fleet of Japan, almost as large as our own and undamaged by battle, on the west. Recent investigations by the Dies Committee have developed that there is already planned and set up among us the machinery of propaganda and sabotage by which we are to be destroyed from within. In this situation, threatened with terror from within and menaced by war from without, we meet on this Armistice Day. The flags are shaken out, the bugles sound, the drums roll, the military people march. Our Republic stretches itself in its strength. We are thrilled by the occasion and our spirits rise to meet the danger with which the air is electric.

But before we consider the position of our country today, let us take one last look back at that other Armistice Day twenty-two years ago. Of some things we may be sure; the old slogans were not so far wrong. That there are great nations in the hand of arrogant and cruel dictators, bent upon domination of the world, no one can now doubt. That the continued triumph of these dictators makes it probable that democratic government will disappear from the earth is also now all too plain. That the world had a golden opportunity to promote the cause of peace after the last war is also pitifully clear.

One of the causes of our failure is now painfully evident. It is the spirit of excessively partisan politics. Most thinking men now agree that it would have been better for us to have joined the League of Nations in 1919. As a young man just out of the army in 1919 I was passionately in favor of our joining, and I still think I was right. Certainly it is hard to see how it would have made matters worse.

Why did we not join? We did not join because of the abuse of our two party system of government, because of political jealousy and passion. Woodrow Wilson was the father of the League of Nations. Yet, when it became apparent that there would be opposition to such a fundamental change in our foreign policy as our adherence to the pact of the League, he took a rigid party stand on the matter. Had he been willing to take a few hand-picked Republican Senators with him to Versailles, or had he been willing to accept the reservations which Republican leaders proposed, we would probably have entered the League and the whole fate of the world would have been changed.

On the other hand, the Republican leaders were guilty of equal folly. Almost without exception all of the great men of the Republican Party were on record as favoring the League—Taft, Root, Hoover, Vickers, Lodge himself. Yet when the matter got into partisan politics they forgot the 150,000 men who had been battle casualties to win the peace, and dealt with the peace of the world as though it was a bit of political patronage to be quarreled over. Both parties were certainly at fault; but the mischief was done, the golden moment for peace passed, and the world again rings with the clash of arms.

Said George Washington in his Farewell Address "Let me now warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the Spirit of Party. It serves always to distract the Public Councils, and enfeeble the Public Administration. It agitates the community with ill founded jealousies and false alarms, kindles the animosity of one party against another, foment occasion ally riot and insurrection. It opens the door to foreign influence and corruption, which find a facilitated access to the Government itself through the channels of party passions. Thus the policy and will of one country are subjected to the policy and will of another." Thus the old-fashioned, stately language of Washington.

If this country had joined with the other free peoples of the world, at the close of the Great War, in an effort to keep the peace, there would have been available the machinery to prevent the present tragic war. If the Germans were in any degree wronged by the treaty, there would have been available a forum to which they could have taken their complaint. The League was expected to sit as a permanent committee of revision. The whole great effort was destroyed by party strife, and went for nothing. This, I believe, was what Col. Lindbergh had in mind when he warned this country against the folly of going to war if we mean, once more, to walk away and leave the peace to others. We won the last war, the fighting men did, with sweat and blood and pain. The so-called statesmen lost the peace, in jealousy, hatred, party clamor and unbelievable littleness.

This thing must not happen again. Already in the hour of our country's peril there has been an encouraging sign. During the campaign just closed, Mr. Wilkie, over the protests of the politicians, approved the President's foreign policy, refused to take the isolationist position, refused to oppose the draft, refused to oppose aid to England. By following his conscience, instead of purely political consideration, he lost many votes but he kept his country united. Had he taken the contrary course the result of the election would probably have been the same, but the country would once more have been paralyzed by party passion, torn with dissension, and impotent in the present crisis. As it is, we are all reasonably united in our views upon foreign affairs and all recognize our danger.

It has been our nation's experience that our courage rises with danger. I always liked Uncle Sam as the figure representing our country. Instead of the benign figure of Columbia, He typifies the good nature, the shrewdness, the resourcefulness, the pride, the courage and the iron will of our people. Our Uncle Sam is aroused now. Instead of the benevolent, tolerant, easy-going gentleman, he towers now above the world. His eagle eye sweeps the scene and there have come into his whimsical face the lines of firmness and decision.

So let it be with us all on this Armistice Day. The time for words has passed; the time for action has arrived. Fortunately, we are not yet called to the field of battle; God grant we may not be. But the next six months will tell the tale. If we can produce munitions, ships, and above all planes in such profusion that where they are required they may be sent to assist the hard-pressed sons of freedom who are standing alone against the tyrant, we may be spared the ordeal of war. We must not doubt and party quarrels and divided loyalties behind us and we must, as one man stand for our own dear country in this hour of darkness, of adversity, and peril.

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN G. HILL

madder and madder. He says ain't it awful the way people have been heaving things at each other in this election and calling each other all kinds of this-and-thats, when they could of talked it over nicely and picked the best man without getting sore as a dog, etc. I says, no it ain't awful, it's fine.

"Then I give him the works. I tell him this country will be sunk when it gets so that nothing makes it mad. We started by getting mad at England and when any of us felt we was taking the short end of anything we didn't stop to try to see taking sides of whatever it was eating us. We just started swinging. That's the way it is and the way it ought to be in a free-for-all country like ours where we haven't got a duke or a king to tell us what to think and the cop on the corner knows it's none of his business, as long as he doesn't have to turn in a riot call."

"All I says, I don't want to get personal, but you're a salesman for a wholesale liquor house. You're a nice guy, but the customer is always right. I'll let Ed here nick me on the bean with a bungster if you'll tell this mob just where you stand on this election, one way or another. You wouldn't do it. You might lose an order. That's been one trouble with this country—too many people trying to sell something. We were all yes men. Now we begin to get mad about a lot of things. That means we aren't ready for the boneyard yet."

And so on and so on. I leave wide open at both ends Mr. Auger's question: Are we tolerant only in matters we don't care anything about?

Michigan Gripp'd By Icy Blasts

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Nov. 12—Icy winds, sometimes reaching near cyclonic proportions, whipped across Michigan today bearing death and widespread destruction.

The known death toll stood at three and there was a possibility this might rise to 12 as two fishing tugs with between six and nine men aboard were reported missing on Lake Michigan, off Grand Haven. It is feared they went down.

Industrial plants in eastern Michigan were closed as the gale swept huge quantities of water from the Saginaw river.

The wind sent temperatures plunging to below freezing in most sections of the state.

Corduroy cloth came from France where a finer fabric was manufactured for the king and his suite's hunting habiliments, and named cord du roi, which, translated, means the king's cord.

Blazes properly put in trees never grow out. A member of the forest service says that a certain blaze was made in 1861, and it is now possible to stand 18 feet away and distinguish it clearly.

Legion Band To Play Saturday

Will Appear At Knickerbocker Program At Cathedral In Evening

As an added attraction to the lecture of H. R. Knickerbocker in the Cathedral Saturday night, November 16, the American Legion band will appear. It was stated today by L. J. Foster, chairman of the evening. The band will play a program prior to the appearance of Mr. Knickerbocker.

Mr. Knickerbocker speaks in Indianapolis, Ind., on the morning of November 16 and will fly from that city to Pittsburgh. At Pittsburgh he will be met by members of the New Castle Junior Chamber of Commerce and brought to New Castle. It is possible that he will not arrive until just time for his appearance on the Cathedral stage.

In order that there will be no delay whatever the Legion band was invited to appear and the director, Joe F. Replogle, consented.

Mr. Knickerbocker, the ace foreign correspondent for the International News Service, has recently returned from England where he was located after the collapse of France. His address here will deal with the recent happenings in Europe.

Christopher Columbus was paid $320 for his discovery of America.

PROVE FREE

Rheumatism Pains
Stop in 7 to 10 Minutes

It is now easy to end rheumatism pains. 7 to 10 minutes will prove it to you. The test will cost you nothing.

So why suffer another day from the agony of this painful ailment when you can secure MUSCLE-RUB, the new preparation that not only cures the pains of rheumatism but also numbness, sciatica, neuralgia, as well as the less serious lameness of muscles and joints? It is no longer necessary to dose the system with internal medicine. The entire body is treated in a simple manner. Applied directly to the limbs, shoulders, neck, face or back—wherever the trouble may be—there is no burning—no irritation. All pain stops as if by magic. Even chronic and severe conditions respond so amazingly that seldom is more than a bottle needed.

MUSCLE-RUB is a new discovery. It is a real scientific preparation. You no longer need to dose the system with violent or nauseating drugs. The treatment is applied directly to the part affected—externally. You literally feel the pain leaving.

And just see what others—sufferers just like yourself—say about this wonderful preparation:

SUFFERED WITH RHEUMATISM FOR TEN YEARS
"I have been suffering with rheumatism for the past 10 years and heard about your Muscle-Rub for this ailment. I purchased a bottle and applied it each day for about a week, and was very much surprised to feel that all my pain gradually disappeared. In 12 years of age and have tried many other remedies, but your preparation is something I will never be without, as it did just what you recommended it for." MR. R. C. GLADWIN, 419 Market Street, Paterson, N. J.

MUSCLE-RUB MADE ME FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN
"Your Muscle-Rub has made me feel like a new man. It certainly did what you claimed for it. I have been suffering with pains in lower limbs for many years and your Muscle-Rub gave me instant relief. From now on I will never be without a bottle in my home." R. H. GLASS, 6212 Callowhill Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

MUSCLE-RUB A GODSEND TO ME
"For the past two years I have been suffering with neuritis in my hands. I have used many kinds of remedies for this trouble, but nothing seemed to help. I heard about your Muscle-Rub and purchased a bottle, which really has been a godsend to me. The first few applications gave me almost instant relief. The swelling has disappeared and my pain has left me entirely." E. SACHS, 1520 Pine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLE-RUB does it obtainable at any drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle, and if you are not amazed and delighted with the results, return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. 50c and $1.00 size.

VITAMINS, PARTICULARLY A

A doctor has only to tell the average mother these days that Vitamin A is extremely important in the development of the young, that it is particularly essential to growth, to get her attention. For everybody has been made vitamin-conscious. If he adds that the same vitamin is essential to good eye-sight, that lack of it can produce, for example, night blindness, he has her entire interest and she is almost sure to ask him just what pills or preparations he recommends as the best form in which to give a child plenty of vitamin A.

A great deal of what has been written about vitamins has confused and misled as well as instructed the public. Too many associate vitamins with capsules or freak foods, when as a matter of fact if either a child or an adult gets a varied and well balanced diet of properly prepared food he will get a sufficient supply of this precious Vitamin A.

For Vitamin A is found in milk, cream, butter, cheese, eggs and green and yellow vegetables. As a rule, the deeper the yellow or green color of the vegetable, the more of Vitamin A it contains.

Fish liver oils contain large amounts of this vitamin, which is another reason why cod-liver oil is so valuable a food for us all.

Scientists who have experimented a great deal with this vitamin assure us that if a child gets plenty of it in his diet, when he grows older that he is much less likely to suffer from respiratory infections.

The expectant mother, the mother who is nursing a baby, needs plenty of Vitamin A, and as she may not be able to get all she wants from an orinary diet without overstuffing herself, she may need to take cod-liver oil.

It is a quality of Vitamin A that it usually isn't destroyed by heating or cooking, and so no special precautions need to be observed in cooking Vitamin A foods. Commercial canning, as it is carried on today, interferes very little with the stores of the vitamin in the vegetable that is canned.

Another peculiarity of the Vitamin A is that unlike most of the others it can be stored up in the body. If your diet for a while contains an oversupply of it, your system lays some of it by to draw on later on when there may be a scarcity. And throughout adulthood, studies show, persons with large stores of Vitamin A in their bodies, are less susceptible to respiratory diseases.

About vitamins I know that there are some people who say: "Piffle, they're just a fad." I also know that there are other extremists—people who must know all about the vitamins in each bit of food they eat. I think somewhere in between is the proper attitude.

Three Army Fliers
Killed By Crash

(International News Service)
CENTERVILLE, Ala., Nov. 12.—Three army fliers—identified as Lieut. R. R. Wilson, Fort Riley, Kan.; Lieut. Benjamin A. Avery of Aurora, N. Y., and Private G. A. Gatlin of Maxwell Field, Ala.—were dead Monday, victims of a plane crash. They were killed Sunday night when their plane—apparently lost in bad weather—crashed near Centerville while en route from Atlanta to Maxwell Field.

N. B. Poe, who lives near the scene of the crash, told authorities he heard the ship circling overhead for several minutes before it crashed with a terrific explosion. Poe rushed to the scene and dragged the bodies of the three men from the plane before notifying Maxwell Field authorities.

Splendid Progress

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—National defense industries have made "unbelievable progress" in rearming America against the threat of total war, according to General George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief of staff.

"Total defense is not only the building of a military machine, but the building of spirit, too," he asserted. "We must make every man, woman and child in this country believe we have something worth defending."

Airplane Missing
An airplane was missing, containing three Army flyers, it was reported after leaving St. Paul, Minn. Sunday for Fort Crook, Neb. Aboard the ship were Lieut. Robert M. Prange, the pilot; Lieut. G. Smith, and a private soldier. The plane was an observation craft, and it was feared to have fallen into Spirit Lake, in Northwest Iowa. A snowstorm forced abandonment of the search for the plane.

Snow, sleet or rain accompanied the gales in most sections. Air traffic was virtually halted, and in parts of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota huge snow drifts brought motor traffic to a standstill and delayed trains.

The storms brought the coldest weather of the season to many areas. In Chicago the temperature dropped precipitately from a high of 4 degrees to 15 in 24 hours. To a lesser extent, the mercury dropped sharply throughout the midwest.

Will Have Roles In School Play

Senior High School Comedy To Be Presented On Friday Evening

Dorothy Burton Robert McBride

Dorothy Burton and Robert McBride play the roles of sister and brother in the senior high school comedy, "Janey's One-Track Mind", which is to be produced for the public Friday evening of this week in the school auditorium.

Dorothy is cast as Annabelle, who puts obstacles in the way of the plans that are rolling smoothly down the direct, single track of Janey's mind. The part calls for good acting since she must fulfill her reputation of "a lovely child" among her elders, and at the same time merit the whole-hearted dislike of the younger set.

Dorothy is a well known member of the January graduating class. Her activities are many and varied. Throughout her high school course she has been a Girl Reserve. In her junior and senior years she has been a squad leader and a member of the Girls' Athletic Club.

In her senior year she has widened her interests by working on the "Ne-Ca-El" staff and on the staff of the school newspaper, and by joining the Etiquette and the French Clubs. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Burton of Euclid avenue.

ARMY RUNS SHORT OF EQUIPMENT AS ENLISTMENTS SOAR

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Sudden influx of hundreds of volunteers in recent weeks has found the U. S. Army quartermasters without sufficient supplies of arms, uniforms and other material needed to equip the men.

Many of the 400 enlisted men who signed up with the Army Air Corps have been drilling at Mitchel Field, L. I., in civilian clothes and sleeping in two hangars. Scores of coats have been set up in the hangars, from which Army bombers and pursuit planes have been removed. Lack of tents forced use of the hangars, which are steam-heated.

A similar situation exists at Fort Totten, in Queens, where recruits for the anti-aircraft units are wearing an assortment of cotton and woolen uniforms. Some units lack sufficient rifles to supply all the soldiers.

One of the Lawrence County Garden Forum's most interesting meetings was held Monday evening in the Recreation Center of the Alken school buildings, Pearson street, with the New Wilmington Garden club members as hosts.

Armistice Day Dinner Event

Veterans Gather At The Castleton On Monday Night For Annual Observance

One of the Armistice Day customs that has grown in favor as the years progressed is the annual dinner held on Armistice night. Back every year come men of the infantry, the field artillery, the navy and the other branches of the service and for a time swap stories of the days they served.

There never is any formal program, which may account for the unending success of the dinners. Monday night, November 11, the annual dinner was held in The Castleton hotel and starting with no program at all, one was built as the dinner progressed.

War songs and old time ballads were sung under the direction of Emrys Davis of Mercer. A number of short addresses were made and before adjournment officers were elected for the next year. Dr. Arthur B. Foster was named chairman for the 1941 dinner and James A. Fletcher was named permanent secretary.

Those who spoke at the dinner included John B. McKibben, Emrys Davis, Mercer, Attorney William J. Caldwell, James A. Fletcher, William E. Ferver, Ray Carruthers, Guy J. Wadlinger, John Merritt of Volant, Attorney Orville Brown, Attorney Clarence A. Patterson, Walter Dieterle, Alderman James C. Brice, Judge W. Walter Braham, William G. Fleming and Dr. Arthur B. Foster.

Brooklyn Dodgers Are After Pennant

Buy Higbe From Phils For 1941 Season, Have Spent Half Million For Players

A few months, MacPhail also took First Baseman Dolph Camilli off the Phillies to help give the Dodgers one of the best infields in baseball, and he also brought in Outfielder Ducky Medwick from the St. Louis Cardinals, just to name a few.

Camilli, according to MacPhail, represented a cast outlay of $60,000. Medwick $122,000, plus players, and now Higbe $100,000.

The upshot of it all is that the Dodgers are building for a championship and the Phillies are building for a payday for the club officials, and let the devil take the hindmost among the fans, not to mention the foremost.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Speaking of boxing, William (Red) Bender of Western Maryland athletic fame was recently here. He is now a school teacher in Cumberland, Md. "Red" as we call him, worked his way through Western Maryland. He was in football, boxing, track and emerged with an education that now is being imparted to others. He is a likeable lad.

Yes, Tommy Leach was the "Masked Marvel" of this section's pool colony. His right name is Daniel Pagley. While a "kid" he became enamored of Tommy Leach the Pirate baseball player and selecting that name as his moniker. It has followed him through. It is Yankee who keeps the boxers crawling into and from the arena ring on time at each fight. He performed as an amateur at the bowl. His best fights were with Lou Tambers, the Farrell bantamweight, George Chip and Mickie Solomon, were two of the middleweights at the last fight. Whenever George Perotta can get off work he also drinks in the sight of flying fists, like the Johnny Dean who we have discovered is now growing a moustache. This recalls Dutch Siler of Cincinnati who wore one the night he fought Tony Zill in Cincinnati. In ye olden days many of the bare-knuckle fighters wore 'em. For real sport, it is a 22 rifle shot at a rabbit. Of course, no one is expected to bring one down every shot. Another good sport is how and arrowing the bow. Wayne Sines is using that method to keep the family meat supply up to normal. He intends to hunt deer with the B and A this fall.

The hand of Mike Jacobs is on display again. He has allowed a Boston promoter to use Joe Louis, heavyweight champion vs Al McCoy, the New England heavyweight, Billy Conn, the light-heavyweight champion, leathered Mr. McCoy good and proper, recently. If Louis beats Al (and there is no reason why he should not) the "work" will go in for a summer meeting between Louis and Conn. Frankie DeLillo, one of the vocal warblers of yesterday's Baltimore resident and Bill Chilli, the other half of the warbling duo, while a Youngstown resident, visits here now and then. He likes his golf. . . . Durbin of the J-B is the keeper of bowling percentages. He presents weekly a neat sheet for which we say "Thanks." And by the way, a few features about the game wouldn't go bad. Who is the oldest bowler? Who is the youngest bowler? etc. etc. Bowling, so we know, is excellent sport for fighters. A fighter who can bowl can be taught easily to hook properly with either hand. We haven't seen one fighter here recently who has hooked properly. They curve punches. A straight right to the chin also can be learned if one knows how to put the shot.

New Castle High Resumes Training

"Red Hurricane" Will Be At Full Strength For Battle At Warren

The New Castle High grid eleven resumed training this afternoon at Taggart Stadium for their battle at Warren on this coming Saturday afternoon. The team was given a vacation from the rain on Monday afternoon.

Barring unforeseen injuries this week, the New Castle team will enter the final game of the year at Warren with the same lineup that started the Campbell game here last Friday. Don Jerry will be back in at quarter, Peters at guard and Parou at end.

Warren is making big preparations for the game and hope to upset the dope bucket by taking the measure for the locals. The Presidents have a strong team this year and have in the past few weeks hit their stride, their fastest upset being a 12 to 7 licking handed to the big Niles eleven.

Genaro Defeats West In First

Turner Wins From Butcher After Judges Fail To Agree

ALL LOCAL BOYS, EXCEPT ARKETT, WIN

Frankie Genaro, Youngstown's former Golden Gloves champion of the 147 pounders last featured the Jefferson A. C. boxing show in The Arena by knocking out Jimmy West of Bellevue in the first round of a scheduled three round battle.

The Buckeye Battler drove West to the ropes and when Jimmy bounced from the strand Genaro caught him with a left to the chin he felled him like an ox. It required the services of the club physician to restore the Bellevue welterweight to consciousness.

The main bout between Ralph Butcher of Meadville and Al Turner of Pittsburgh was the drabdest bout of the card. It went the limit. Turner displayed a threat and aggressive, displayed a threat and aggressive, Turner got "nod" after the judges split.

Frankie Moran, this city, beat a tartar, Eddie Eickie, Bellevue, at 133. Before the fight Eddie appeared as though he wouldn't last long with Moran. However, he fooled everybody. Eddie was knocked down for nine in the first and also in the second. His heart being of steel, he kept fighting. Moran was down for nine in the third. He didn't take a count. Moran received the decision.

William Shelton, clever hard-hitting colored 140 pounder of Pittsburgh scored a TKO over Tony Stringy of Youngstown in the second. Shelton floored Stringy twice in the first and when Tony went down the second time in the second his seconds tossed the sponge into the ring.

Russell Baxter, local welterweight, defeated Joe Waller of Pittsburgh, in three rounds. Baxter fought a smart fight, excepting that, at times, he dropped his guard and unprotected himself. However, he was mikes out in front of the visitor when the battle ended. The fight went three rounds. Gido Feligenza of this city decided Dall Wooten of Meadville at 135, in three rounds. There was not a dull moment in the fight. Swings were delivered from the floor and ceiling. Some believed Wooten deserved the decision. The vote of the referee gave the fight to Gido.

Les Leasure, the "Cane Kid" out-fought Leo Blendinger of Bellevue in three rounds. He had Blendinger wobbly at the end of the second and he forced the fighting in the first and third and in the last part of the round dropped Leo who got up without a count.

Tony Arnett of Ellwood City was doing nicely with Ray Miller of Meadville, at 118 when Miller butted Arnett, inflicting a cut above an eye. Referee McMahon stopped the fight to save Arnett's eye from further aggravation. The referee was Tom McMahon, Judges Phil Greer and Tommy Jones. Timer, Billy Pazzone and announcer, Charles Walther.

The results: New Castle, W. Thomas 288, J. Williams 280, G. Finley 287, Merle Gillich 282, Wally Bowers 284—Total 1401. Other New Castle scores: G. Williams 252, Betty Ward 261, Ray Hammond 256. East Palestine: E. Schreckengost 269, Booth 273, Cy Wilson 281, L. Lipp 284, M. Lipp 270—Total 1377. Other East Palestine scores: Shook 267, M. Wilson 260.

New Brighton: Shanon 280, Kennedy 281, Timmons 264, Carlton 269, Vetter 266—Total 1370. Other New Brighton scores: Best 250, Shepard 263.

Zellenopole: Huffman 285, Tuma 276, Leminger 282, Wilson 280, Ed. Luntz 256—Total 1359.

Navy-Notre Dame Will Play Again In Baltimore Bowl

(International News Service)
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12.—Navy and Notre Dame football teams will clash in Baltimore Stadium again next year, according to plans now awaiting final consummation of the respective athletic associations, it was announced here Monday.

Heretofore the teams have met on a home and home basis, Navy journeying to either South Bend, Ind., or the Municipal Stadium, Cleveland, when the Irish were host team.

The tentative decision gives Baltimore two outstanding attractions next year, as the Navy-Cornell contest is booked for that city's stadium.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

College Station, Texas, den of the famous Texas A. & M. juggernaut, is the locale of a story that rivals some of the yarns penned in Hollywood. At the start of pre-season drills, a modest looking chap watched the Texas Aggie Fish (freshman team) labor diligently in the hope of impressing the corps of coaches who watch over the yearlings.

The boy, a stranger to everyone at A. & M., calmly walked onto the sod and asked if he would be permitted to try out with the freshman team. At A. & M., anyone desiring a trial gets it. And so, Coach "Hub" McQuillan, major domo of the freshman coaching brigade, ordered a uniform for the chap.

Asked if he had had previous experience in football, the quiet lad stated that he played some high school football. Consequently, he was assigned to the unimpressive team until someone could find time to give him the "once over." From the opening play, the lad showed amazing ability as a backfield man.

On placement attempts, the lad broke through repeatedly, halting such vaunted stars as John Kimbrough, Pugh, Conaster and Thomas. And, he was crashing through regularly. His showing caused Bill James, line coach, to shift the boy to guard. The tutors were instructed to watch the boy closer.

Nebraska Team To Battle Pitt

Greatest Nebraska Team Ever To Play In Pittsburgh Scheduled Saturday

(Special To The News)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12.—The greatest Nebraska team ever to play in Pittsburgh, in fact the best ever to play Pitt anywhere, that is the tag that Major Bill Jones' Huskers will wear when they come back to Pittsburgh this week-end for their annual battle.

A year ago they beat Pitt 14-13, although the margin was greater than the score. This year they have the same team back, with two or three exceptions.

None of that great collection of backs which permitted Coach Jones to use two complete sets of them against Pitt are missing, although one, Henry Rohm, who scored against Pitt last fall but who lost his varsity status making way for Wayne Blue, a powerhouse fullback.

It is that powerful backfield setup that is making the Huskers' terrific favorites. They have carried them through to smashing victories over Missouri and Oklahoma, and lost but one touchdown to mighty Minnesota.

A modern revival of the Statue of Liberty play has been very successful for Brown. Employed against Rutgers last Thanksgiving and against Holy Cross, the play has netted better than 10 yards in each instance.

Gus Broberg, Dartmouth's sensational basketball player, recently caged 46 consecutive fouls on the challenge that he had lost the skilled eye that saw him miss but one free throw during his sophomore and junior seasons.

Marshall Leong, Chinese fullback and a good one, isn't at St. Mary's this year. He decided to forego his sophomore year for a season and work instead.

Season For Deer Opens December 2; Fine Outlook

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—Pennsylvania's deer hunters—and thousands from other states, the State Department of Commerce points out—already are planning their annual onslaught on these fleet-footed animals that, according to the State Game Commission, are more numerous than can be fed with the forage available in certain sections.

Approximately 7,500 out-of-state hunters come into Pennsylvania annually. They each pay $15 for the privilege of hunting and spend much additional money for food, gasoline, guides and other services, the department explains.

The season on deer opens December 2 and closes December 14—and both bucks and does may be killed this year except those with only a visible spike antler or antlers without points.

But even before deer hunting gets under way the state's big game gunners will have an opportunity to hunt bears, the season for which opens November 18 and closes November 21, with the exception that the animals may not be hunted in Adams, Bedford, Blair, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Mifflin and Perry counties. Only bears more than one year old may be killed.

The season on raccoons began November 1 and will continue until December 31. These animals may be hunted in all the counties of the state but may not be taken in traps in the following counties: Beaver, Berks, Bucks, Butler, Cambria, Carbon, Chester, Dauphin, Delaware, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Lehigh, Mercer, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Schuylkill, Snyder and York counties.

The small game season closes with the end of the month.

Deer hunters have an added feature this season—the season opens on Monday morning and that will give the hunters the pleasure of getting into the woods during the week-end to participate in the hearty comradeship of the trail, to enjoy the good camp meals, to recite experiences of other years and to plan for the hunt that is to come beginning Monday morning.

During the 1939 season 40,106 legal male deer were killed by hunters in the state and 14,881 legal antlerless deer were slain in several counties in the northern part of the state where the Game Commission declared a season on these animals because of the over-abundance of them. In 1939 the total weight of the deer slain was 6,813,670 pounds. In that year, also, 661,314 hunting licenses were issued.

In 1938, when legal bucks were protected, hunters in the state brought down 171,662 antlerless deer for a total of 13,732,960 pounds.

Piccuta Shines At John Carroll

AL PICCUTA - GUARD

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12.—One of the brightest of the sophomore stars at John Carroll university is Al Piccuta, a New Castle High product.

Al was one of the two sophomores in the starting lineup when the Blue Streaks defeated Arkansas Tech in their 1940 grid inaugural. Weighing only 176, Al is one of the lightest men on the line, but his blocking and speed have won him the starting spot.

Besides his athletic record at the university, Piccuta as a freshman ranks No. 1 on the football squad scholastically.

Piccuta is a seventh ward resident.

Peckinpugh May Get Indian Post As 1941 Manager

President Alva Bradley Will Make Announcement Of New Manager Today

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12.—The Cleveland Indians will have a new manager by tonight, with Roger Peckinpugh generally understood to be the choice.

Ever since Oscar Vitt was discharged a couple of weeks ago the speculation of the baseball world has been the question of his successor. Vitt was fired as a result of the now famous "June rebellion," in which more than half of the Indians went to Alva Bradley, President of the Cleveland Baseball Co., and said:

"We can't win for Oscar Vitt."

Despite the fact that the Tribune on an almost unprecedented winning streak they finished second—by one game—to the Detroit Tigers in the American League race Vitt obviously was out.

Vitt's dismissal was announced at a club director's meeting last month, but Bradley at that time refused to name his successor. The matter rested until today, with various names mentioned and put forward by Cleveland's numerous downtown managers.

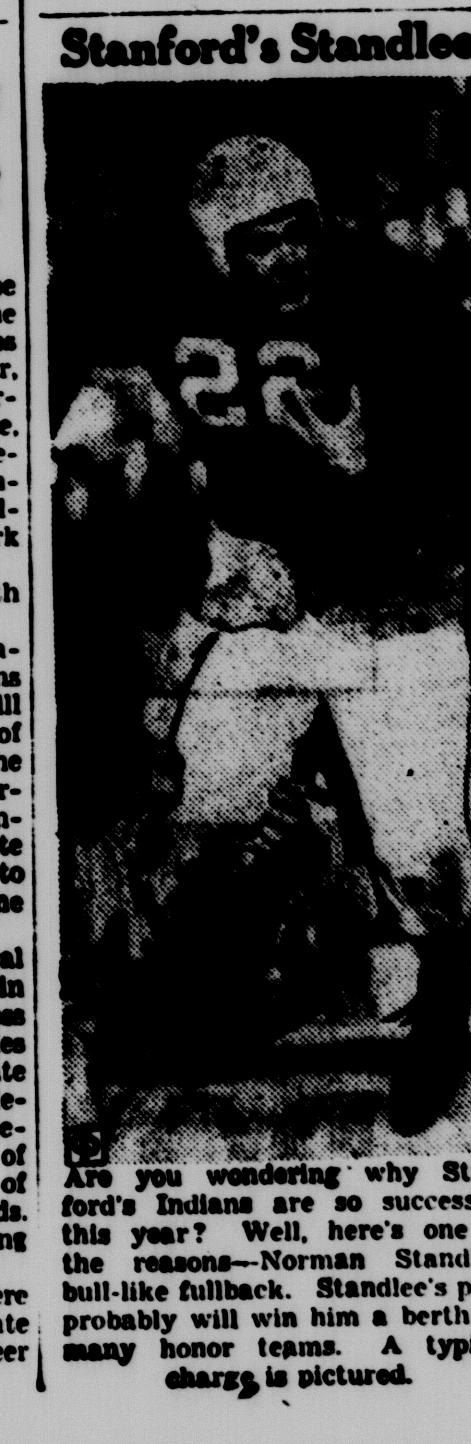

Chief among the possibilities, besides Peckinpugh were Luke Sewell, Indian coach and former catcher and Rogers Hornsby. Also mentioned was a dark horse, whose name was not revealed.

Judging by the performance of the freshman against the N. Y. U. Frosh, election day at Ohio Field, Crowley will have the most versatile team in his Fordham coaching career in 1941.

Max Morris, a guard, and Paul Ellis, a halfback, are wearing the same numbers at Alabama Poly as were worn by their older brothers who were stars before them.

Stanford's Standees

Are you wondering why Stanford's Indians are so successful this year? Well, here's one of the reasons—Norman Standees, built-like fullback. Standees' play probably will win him a berth on many honor teams. A typical charge is pictured.

Week-End Football Card Star-Studded

Another star-studded collegiate pigskin panorama will be unfolded in stadiums from coast to coast this week-end.

The spotlight will be shifted from the mid-west to the East. In Boston, two unbeaten and untied powerhouses, Boston College and Georgetown, winner of 23 in a row, collide. At State College, New York University will be out to dent Penn State's undefeated program.

The Big Nine presents another tempting dish. Minnesota, which is the greatest team in the land if such an aggregation exists, tiffs with Purdue; Indiana goes to Wisconsin; Ohio State battles at Illinois; Northwestern faces Michigan and Iowa lines up against Notre Dame at South Bend.

Other eastern games that belong in the upper bracket: Nebraska at Pittsburgh, Navy at Columbia, Cornell at Dartmouth, Carnegie Tech at F. & M. Slippery Rock at Geneva, Kansas at Geo. Washington, Brown at Harvard Temple at Holy Cross, Western Maryland at Lafayette, Villanova at Manhattan, Army at Pennsylvania, Yale at Princeton, Colgate at Syracuse, Grove City at Thiel, Allegheny at Washington & Jefferson and Waynesburg at West Virginia Wesleyan.

South-Far West

Other Games
Maryland at V. M. I., Kentucky at West Virginia, Detroit at Gonzaga, Oregon State at Stanford, Washington State at U. L. A., Southern California at Washington, Oregon at California, Iowa State at Kansas State, Michigan State at Marquette, Missouri at Oklahoma, John Carroll at Western Reserve, Youngstown at Ohio Wesleyan, Marshall at Xavier (Ohio).

Following last week-end's crash, here are the teams clinging to perfect records:

East—Cornell, Boston College and Georgetown. With Boston College and Georgetown tangling this week, the list is bound to be reduced.

Mid-west—Minnesota and Notre Dame. Both seem to be safely entrenched for this week-end at least.

South—Tennessee. The Vols face another hapless foe, Virginia, and are sure to return to the list by tonight Saturday.

Southwest—Texas A. & M. confronted by Rice, the Aggies don't have much to fear.

Pacific Coast—Stanford. Bucking against one of the biggest clubs in the land, Oregon State, Shanahan's magic wand may go sour this week.

The Washash Bears of the Seventh Ward are preparing to battle the Butler Ex-High Stars on this coming Sunday at the Butler Yankin Stadium. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach "Blackie" Adams will have several new players in the lineup for the game at Butler. The Bears will have a workout every night this week at the E. & A. Field at 4:30 o'clock. Last Sunday the Bears were defeated at Youngstown 12 to 0 by the Tailors.

Bears Preparing To Play Butler

Chief among the possibilities, besides Peckinpugh were Luke Sewell, Indian coach and former catcher and Rogers Hornsby. Also mentioned was a dark horse, whose name was not revealed.

SHORT SPORTS

Not only will Bowie offer five stakes carrying $32,500 added money but it will offer 78 races worth $1200 each, and eight $200 races, carrying $1500 added money. Bowie's minimum purse of $1200 is 200 greater than any other State track.

The outstanding defensive work of the Penn State team is largely attributed to the magnificent work of a veteran line. Five of this forward wall are playing their third year together on the Lion varsity.

Urbana, Ill.—Johnny Worban, reserve Illinois left halfback, from Englewood high, Chicago, was a quotations marker in a large Chicago brokerage office before coming to the university.

The first highly paid jockeys were the "Fony Express" riders who received $1200 per month due to the risks taken. Letters cost $5 each in postage.

Washington—At Crater Lake National Park, in Oregon, the angler fishes in an extinct volcano crater—for which the area is named.

West Point—Dick Hennessy, halfback, is lost to Army for the rest of the season because of a leg injury suffered in the Notre Dame game.

STOCKS

Stock Market Is Reactionary

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The stock market turned reactionary today on profit-taking induced by the wide rise in the last few sessions.

Steel shares and other leaders of the advance were under more pressure, and losses ran to more than 2 points at the close. The session, however, had its strong spots, prominent among which were the aviation shares which exceeded 2 points.

Business news included a new record in steel production and some further good earnings reports. The market met support before midday and some of the losses were out down.

Ellwood High Wins From Beaver Falls 7-0

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 12—It really does happen! Ellwood City high school football team yesterday afternoon proved that the dramatic endings of movies and stories occasionally happen in commonplace life, as the Wolverines by means of the ancient Statue of Liberty play scored the game's lone touchdown in the last minute of play to defeat a defensively strong, stubborn Beaver Falls eleven by a 7-0 score.

Billed as the sports feature of the Beaver County Armistice Day celebration, the game despite the unfavorable weather conditions drew an estimated crowd of 4,000 fans, who saw the favorite sons of either team time after time cover themselves with glory and mud.

It marked the end of a most successful season for the Wolverines and brought the total score to 6 victories, 2 defeats and 1 tie. For nine of the first stringers and a host of substitutes it brought to a close a successful and happy gridiron career. Main team members making their final bow were: Seetch and Matlocks; Fishoneri, center; Taylor, guard; Reino, Matrangol, Rubino, Morrison and Cartwright backs.

The winning drive began when Ross kicked for Beaver Falls from the 34 to the Ellwood 35, with Reino returning the ball to the 45. Reino, who played one of his most brilliant games yesterday, shot a perfect pass to Tammara and the Blue and White were 17 yards nearer victory land. After one was incomplete, Reino heaved a pass to DeCaria, which was good for 9 more yards. Then Reino staged the statue of liberty trick from pass formation and DeCaria took the ball and raced 25 yards before being halted. As he was tackled he fumbled and Carl Lardo was really hero of the play for he recovered the ball for Ellwood on the Beaver Falls five after a perilously narrow escape in which he skidded after the ball for at least five yards. In the next play, Reino shot another pass to Tammara, who made a perfect catch in the end zone and Ellwood was ahead 6 to 0. Matrangol kicked the extra point and there was only time left for one more play.

While Ellwood dominated the play in the first period, there was scoring threat. Beginning the second quarter, Ellwood had the ball down to the Tiger's 20, when Matrangol's pass was intercepted by Ross, who returned to his 35 before being stopped. The rest of the first half was uneventful.

Beaver Falls came back very strong in the second half and practically kept the ball in their possession during the third quarter. Both teams looking for a break, they exchanged punts frequently. Despite the soggy condition of the field both teams fumbled only twice.

Mid-way in the final period, Brown returned Reino's punt to the Ellwood 32. Weiss passed to Brown for 18 yards and the ball was on Ellwood's 50.

Supreme Court Upsets N. L. R. B. Pay For Strikers

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The supreme court today rejected the National Labor Relations Board's claim to power to order a corporation to reimburse relief agencies for money paid strikers, while it upheld the board's claim in an important dispute between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the court's 6 to 2 opinion in the first case, in which part of the board's order in the famous Republic Steel case was set aside.

In the Republic Steel case the board ruled that workers were deprived of employment in the "hot" steel strike because of the company's unfair labor practices. Many obtained work relief jobs.

The board, which has ordered Republic to pay back wages amounting to an estimated millions of dollars, directed that wages earned outside the plant be deducted and the money paid them by relief agencies reimbursed by the company.

The court held that the board exceeded the scope of the Wagner act.

Over Million Tourists Visit State This Summer

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—In four summer months 1,023,322 persons riding in 394,688 automobiles came into Pennsylvania from other states, the State Department of Commerce reported today.
They came in through eleven port-of-entry stations manned by specially trained personnel from the Pennsylvania Motor Police during the months of June, July, August and September.
The department's new pictorial tourist map and other pieces of literature were given to tourists and assistance was furnished in suggesting interesting places to visit and in giving directions. Only cars carrying bona fide tourists and vacationists were recorded, the department reported.
Ohio led in the number of visitors with New York, Maryland, New Jersey, West Virginia, Illinois and the District of Columbia next in order. Even Florida sent 20,833 visitors and California, at the other end of the country, sent 19,836 during the four months the stations were in operation.
The stations were open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. each day.
"When one considers the number of tourists who came in through these stations between evening and morning and those who came in over the many other highways leading into the state where they were no stations one can realize how important was this summer tourist influx to Pennsylvania," said Richard P. Brown, Secretary of Commerce, today.
The records of these four months give us something concrete on which to base our predictions that the season's tourist business was an exceedingly important one to Pennsylvania.
In June 95,168 automobiles carrying 203,263 persons came into the state; in July, 118,799 automobiles carrying 316,121 persons; in August, 102,201 automobiles carrying 273,807 persons and in September 78,520 automobiles carrying 203,131 persons—or a total of 394,688 automobiles carrying 1,023,322 persons for the period.
